

Transition Nottingham

Presents

How do Community Gardens and Agriculture adapt to Peak Oil and Climate Change?

Sat 12th Jan

@ The Arts Exchange

Station St

Transition Nottingham presents Community Gardens and Agriculture - How do we adapt to peak oil and climate change?

Peak oil will present many different challenges in the coming years but will also offer several opportunities for local growers. A need for localised markets will make community gardens a vital part of the city economy but will we be able to cope with our new found demand?

Transition Nottingham is a new grassroots organisation established to work towards a future less dependent on fossil fuel energy. We aim to use the great experience and knowledge of local people to find solutions to the imminent problems of peak oil and climate change.

1.00 Welcome
 1.15 Short film about urban food production in an age of energy scarcity
 2.15 A brief guide to peak oil
 2.30 The transition process
 2.45 Open space discussion
 4.15 Feedback and close.

Sat 12th January 2008

The Arts organisation, Station Street, Nottingham

FREE (donations welcome)
 Please email info@transitionnottingham.org.uk to book a space