Editorial

The summer certainly has been a miserable time for animal abusers! If the lack of sunshine wasn't enough, they've also had a torrent of angry people outside their workplaces letting them know their dirty dealings in blood money isn't going to be tolerated anymore. Globally, conferences have been cancelled (see below), animal killers have had some loud demonstrations outside their homes and demos have continued thick and fast across the world. Sweden was host to a very successful International Animal Rights Gathering 2008, which saw hundreds of activists meet for campaign updates, planning and sharing of skills, followed by some lively demos in Stockholm and Malmo. In the UK, various successes have been made in the financial struggle against HLS, with millions of pounds worth of shares ditched and three major shareholders gone. Keep up the great work everyone!

Vivisection Conference

CANCELLED

28th June 2008, New Zealand

A conference on animal experiments due to take place in June was abruptly cancelled after the Ellerslie Event Centre refused to host the event. ANZCCART (the Australian and New Zealand Council for the Care of Animals in Research and Teaching) is the main pro-vivisection lobby group in Australia. This year their annual conference was due to be held in Auckland at the Ellerslie Events Centre, Auckland. However, ANZCCART advised attendees the conference was cancelled due to Ellerslie Event Centre being "nervous of protest action".

Mark Eden of the National Anti Vivisection Campaign says, "We're not surprised that Ellerslie Event Centre has withdrawn their support for ANZCCART. Once people find out that doing business with animal experimenters means protests, disruption and bad publicity, they're pretty quick to disassociate themselves from ANZCCART".

“This is the second time that the animal research conference has lost its venue. In 2005 the ANZCCART conference was due to be held at the National Library of New Zealand in Wellington. But they pulled out once they realised there was serious opposition.”

"Over 300,000 live animals are experimented on each year in New Zealand. Of those approximately 17, 000 of those are subject to very severe suffering. Painful mutilations, electric shocks, lethal toxicological procedures, cutting, freezing and burning - even without pain relief - are legal. Many laboratory animals are forcibly restrained to undergo cruel experiments.

We are pleased that this event has been cancelled. ANZZCCART must be embarrassed that they can't secure a venue due to the controversy surrounding animal experimentation".

IF HLS WILL CLOSE...

International Animal Rights Gathering
21st - 24th August, Jönköping

Activists travelled from over ten different countries to share tactics, tips and stories in a variety of workshops.

Theory into action: over 60 activists hold a loud and lively demonstration outside Novartis, Stockholm.

Campaign Overview

Huntingdon Life Sciences (HLS) are Europe's largest animal testing laboratory. HLS kill, maim and mutilate 500 animals every day in barbaric experiments.

HLS are the most exposed animal testing laboratory in the world, with six separate undercover investigations spanning from 1989 to 2006, each discovering routine cruelty and abuse. HLS test anything they are paid to test, from coffee sweetener to weed killer.

It is legal in a UK laboratory to burn, electrocute, starve, shoot and poison animals. Your M.P. and the RSPCA have no right of access to any UK laboratory, and Section 24 of the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986 states that if anyone publicises what they have seen inside any UK laboratory they can be imprisoned for up to two years. What do these places have to hide?

Stop Huntingdon Animal Cruelty (SHAC) formed in 1999 to close HLS. SHAC have had some incredible successes, with hundreds of companies no longer dealing with the lab. At present, HLS do not even have a banker or insurance company - the UK Government acts as both using taxpayers money.

HLS are millions of dollars in debt and many global companies have dropped HLS, including HSBC, Lloyds TSB, Natwest, UBS, Marsh and Citigroup.

The best way to stay up to date with the most recent developments of the campaign along with all the demonstrations around the world is to check out our website. You can also find listings of all HLS's customers and suppliers:

HLS EXPOSED

NEVER FORGET WHY WE FIGHT...

> 1981 (UK) – Sarah Kite first exposed HLS. While working undercover inside the lab, several horrific tests were witnessed. In one test, 48 Beagles had their backs shaved then an anti-psoriatic cream applied every day for 30 days. This resulted in open sores and blisters on the dogs backs.

> 1997 (UK) – Zoe Broughton exposes HLS. Channel 4 screened the undercover footage of beagle puppies being punched and routinely abused.

> 1997 (USA) – Michelle Rokke worked in the New Jersey lab. There she witnessed monkeys being cut open alive and others being inject whilst held in mid air. During one experiment, the technician stated "You can wipe your ass on that data." During her time inside HLS she also came across experiments which involved 37 Beagle puppies having a leg bone sawn then snapped with a steel wire.

> 2000 – 2003 (UK) – The Daily Express and the Observer both exposed Xenotransplantation experiments which took place inside HLS. This involved stitching the hearts of genetically modified piglets into the necks of wild caught baboons.

NATIONAL & RALLY

Saturday 12th July 2008

Hundreds of people armed with banners and placards made their way through Peterborough's city centre, with many on-lookers taking leaflets and responding with great support and disgust against HLS.

We then had a very positive and angry demo outside the gates of HLS, who were left in no doubt that no matter what their government lackeys try to do to stop us, we will not go away and we will not have our voices silenced by their draconian laws. We have right on our side and compassion, and that will always be a stronger force for good than their self interest in keeping such vile places open, just for quick profit!

Overall an excellent day to show the mass opposition against the abuse being carried out inside HLS.

During this one experiment, the law was broken over 500 times. The experiments, sponsored by Novartis, were a complete failure.

> 2004 (UK) – Documents leaked again show HLS gassing beagles and mice to test a CFC banned 15 years ago

> 2005 (UK) – Two ex-workers blow the whistle on HLS after seeing repeated misconduct, abuse of animals and sloppy scientific procedures. Beagle dogs were grabbed roughly by the necks, became infected with warts all over their bodies and workers were once again caught out carrying out invalid experiments.

Baboon W201m died of a stroke after two days of suffering from limb spasms and paralysis. Baboon W205m was 'sacrificed' after 21 days. A genetically modified pig's heart had been welded to the vital arteries within its neck...

>> INTRODUCTION

GlaxoSmithKline are a UK-based drugs giant with offices and labs across the globe. GSK not only fund experiments inside HLS but also use all manner of animals in their drug 'safety' experiments. As per usual, animal testing provides GSK with a legal loophole for when their drugs get onto the market and cause unforeseen effects in people. Currently, several families are trying to sue GSK over their drug Paxil, an anti-depressant drug for teenagers and children which caused people to commit suicide. Rather suspiciously, GSK only released information of this danger in 2006. However, a recently unsealed court document by an expert report by Harvard psychiatrist Joseph Glenmullen MD, reveals that GSK knew as early as 1989 that there was an 8-fold increased risk of suicide for patients taking Paxil.

The same story emerged again recently with the anti-AIDs medication Abacavir. GSK said that it could find no association between Abacavir use and heart attacks following a trawl through its internal data. However, it failed to mention that its own summary of product characteristics issued when the drug was launched in the late 1990s had described "mild myocardial degeneration" in mice and rats given the drug for two years.

If testing on animals isn't enough, GSK are busy forcing poor families in underdeveloped countries to testing drugs for them, often forcing them to sign contracts they can't even understand. In July 2008, it emerged that GSK had killed 12 babies in Argentina during a clinical study using their drugs.

>> ANIMAL CRUELTY

In 2002, an epizootic outbreak of diarrhoea occurred in our Beagle breeding colony. Dogs affected were between 6 and 10 weeks of age. Clinical signs consisted of diarrhoea, with or without mucus, haematochezia, lethargy, dehydration, vomiting, anorexia, pale mucous membranes and an elevated or depressed rectal temperature. Samples from 106 affected animals were taken. Campylobacter jejuni sub. jejuni was isolated from 106/106 samples.

If this is what GSK publish in publicly available research papers, just think about what they DON'T publish...

While GSK claim they remain "committed to maintaining high standards of humane care and treatment for our animals", there is little to prove this when reading their own published research papers, which casually describe hideous animal cruelty disguised with scientific jargon to replace the real meanings behind what is going on inside their labs – torture and suffering. One paper even refers to a severe disease outbreak which affected over 106 beagle puppies (see extract left) and caused them severe illness and suffering.

Experiments on animals by GSK, all of which are in the public domain, are plentiful. In 2007, GSK acquired several beagle dogs, sliced them open and inserted ITS radio telemetry devices into their bodies. They also inserted a "flow probe" by cutting open the dogs' chests, spreading apart their ribs, moving their lungs aside and stitching the device into the aorta. The experiment kept some dogs confined in slings while the entire group of dogs were subjected to a variety of drugs. The results? "It is not practical to use this model for the conduct of routine safety pharmacology cardiovascular studies; however, it can be used as a valuable investigative tool". To GSK, animals are a means of getting drugs out onto the market and testing out whatever they fancy behind the locked doors of their laboratories, where animals are reduced from sentient beings to tools for the scientists' ever wondering minds, and a means of filling the ever demanding GSK bank account.

2005 saw GSK team up with the University of Liverpool to mutilate numerous rats and dogs in yet more barbaric and entirely pointless drug experiments. The paper finishes by admitting "these findings alone are insufficient to propose that glucuronidation and/or protein adduction initiate the drug's distinctive hepatopathy in dogs...", before stating that the vague discoveries from this experiment do in fact require "further consideration."

In the US, GSK used over 200 beagles and 100 monkeys in one experiment alone, forcing drugs into their bodies before removing their hearts for inspection. In a similar experiment, monkeys were restrained in hideous custom made boxes which clamped them on their backs for the simple measurement of their heart's response to a drug (see diagram above).

GSK also have other labs around the world; in Italy, GSK conducted an experiment on young beagles where they were force-fed drugs by a tube down the throat after also having telemetric electrodes inserted into their bodies. Essential parts for this experiment had been provided by Bayer and Shering-Plough, two HLS customers.

"The beagle dogs ... were obtained from Huntingdon Life Sciences (Cambridgeshire, UK) and were maintained at GlaxoSmithKline (Hertfordshire, UK)."

GSK have links to many other animal testing institutions across the globe, and HLS is no exception. Like many of these hell-holes, GSK often possess their own breeding colonies which they use to directly ship purpose bred animals into their labs, as well as ordering in animals from the usual culprits – Harlan, Interfauna and B&K Universal.

Just think if this is what GSK are prepared to publish in prestigious scientific journals – what happens behind closed doors? What about the experiments which aren't published? The countless experiments which don't add up to the way they want and get scrapped? Even recent news outlets have started reporting on GSK's dodgy dealings, with court cases exposing them as withholding information from the public about the truth surrounding their drugs. You can write to GSK using the below details, or email info@shac.net if you wish to join us on a demonstration against this unethical company!

MONEY

BEHIND EVERY EXPERIMENT AND EVERY LIFE TAKEN IS A FINANCIAL COMPANY KEEPING HLS OPEN

With over 1.5million of HLS's shares dumped in one month alone, the financial aspects surrounding the campaign have never been more crucial. After protests and action alerts, Acadian Asset Management, Raymond James/Eagle Asset Management and H Partners said goodbye to their blood money shares in HLS.

The NYSE have also never been more important. Without the NYSE, HLS would not have a single shareholder – they are the only company listing them on the stock exchange. Demos have continued throughout London on a regular basis. Write to the NYSE at:

Barclays are also feeling the heat. As a massive shareholder in the NYSE (and HLS directly), they hold a large influence over decisions made by the NYSE. An unhappy NYSE means they will rid the source of their grief – and kick HLS off the exchange. Contact Barclays at the following places:

Our friends Win Animal Rights in New York have played an immense role in the financial campaign, working in unison to target HLS shareholders as well as holding regular home demos at NYSE targets. They have been an unstoppable force!

DUMPED!

It doesn't take long before companies quickly realise what a bad investment HLS is and drop them like a hot potato. Raymond James made the right choice and dropped their shares in HLS, worth over £7million

H.Partners have also seen the error of their ways and dumped a steaming £11.2million worth of back onto HLS, quickly followed by Acadian Asset Management (part of Old Mutual) who also saw sense.

SHAC DISCLAIMER

This newsletter is not intended to encourage illegal activity of any kind. SHAC's intent is to close down HLS by legitimate means only, spreading information and disseminating facts relating to Huntingdon Life Sciences record of animal cruelty, fraud and incompetence. We believe there is more than enough evidence for the UK Government to withdraw Huntingdon's license and close them down. Readers must bear in mind that certain demonstrations, e.g. home demonstrations and office occupations are now illegal in the UK although they are perfectly legal in other countries, and the inclusion of reports relating to these demos abroad does in no sense amount to encouragement to do similar demos in the UK.

Companies details are listed for the purpose of readers making informative and polite communications with the companies listed. The details are not intended for repetitive rude or threatening calls. SHAC is a global organisation and so the laws differ from country to country. Sections 145 and 146 of SOCA in the UK make it a specific offence to target a company involved in the vivisection industry with a view to getting them to sever a contract by illegal means.

So what does that mean? Does that mean demonstrations, phone calls and e-mails are now illegal? No it doesn't, but what it does mean is to target a company illegally is. So what does illegally mean? Well, for example, to ring a company up and say they should stop dealing with HLS "or else" is illegal because it is threatening. It is all about using your common sense and proportionality. If you are still unsure please consult the legal booklet. You can always contact us about legal issues and also check out: www.freebeagles.org
