

PROBABLY THE MOST INSPIRING STORY OF LOVE AND TRAGEDY YOU WILL EVER READ.

It was never meant to be like this and so he cuddled his son closer and pointed upwards to the clear blue sky.

"Joseph. I love you, wider than the sky."

He looked down at his boy and their eyes met. Jack then lowered his arm to the horizon.

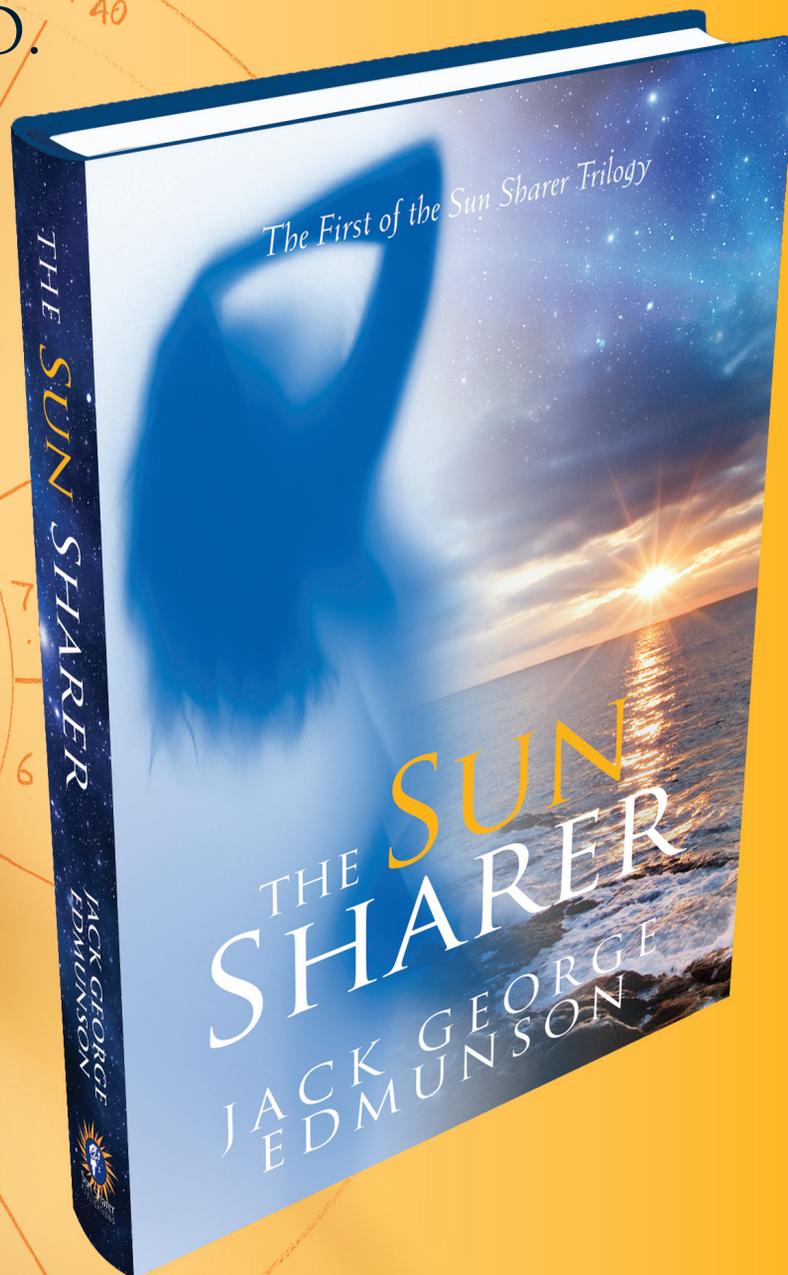

"And I love you bigger than the sea. Always remember that. No matter what happens or wherever I am..... I love you wider than the sky and bigger than the sea."

Women's fiction set in the cultural contradictions of Catalonia versus Cheshire.

Written by a man giving you a 'black' and shocking converse to typical Romances. Topical and thought provoking about our existence, our lives and our love - what everyone wants to say and do but will never admit especially to themselves.

Jack turned to his wife as he stared at the incandescent sunset burning across the darkening sea.

"This is 'Real Life' Melanie, because life is what you make of it and not what it makes of you."

At the end of my story you will want to give up on your job, your partner, the children and even what you believe is your rightful existence - I did.

I lost every penny I had. I left my young son but promised him I would return. And my best friends became long gone acquaintances.

But then I found true love with my Sun Sharer.

The places in this story don't matter but the people do.

Because people make life, not places, not possessions and not things.
